

Max Planck Institute for the Study of Religious & Ethnic Diversity

The Max-Planck Institute for the Study of Religious and Ethnic Diversity, Department for Socio-Cultural Diversity is offering:

Two 6-months Writing Fellowships

These Residential Fellowships are intended for junior and senior scholars who are writing-up their own research, for publication in books or top ranked journals, on topics relevant to the Department's interests (see website). Fellows will be full members of staff with administrative, IT and library support at the Institute. They should participate in academic and social activities of the Institute, where the working language is English.

Requirements:

Ph.D. in Social/Cultural Anthropology, Geography, Sociology or Political Science.

The Fellowships will commence in September 2016 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Please send your application to Jutta Esser (Esser@mmg.mpg.de) before the deadline of 31 July 2016. This should include a cover letter and statement of research, publication plans, CV including a list of publications, names and email addresses of two references and two writing samples

The Max Planck Society wishes to increase the participation of women wherever they are underrepresented; therefore, applications from women are particularly welcome.

Following its commitment to an equal opportunities employment policy, the Max Planck Society also especially encourages persons with a disability to submit their applications.

For further information please contact Professor Steven Vertovec, Director of the Department, via his Secretary at Esser@mmg.mpg.de
